A Message from the Executive Director

It is hard to believe that another year has flown by and 2023 is fast becoming one of CAEP's busiest years. The vibrancy and commitment demonstrated by our members across the country is astounding given what the last 3 years has been like for Emergency Medicine. New members, new committees and new partnerships has renewed the bonds of our community, given hope and, I believe, resiliency to emergency medicine as a whole. Although emergency medicine in Canada is still facing unbelievable challenges such as shortages of physicians and nurses and unplanned closures of emergency departments across this country, CAEP is leading the way in advocacy and proposed solutions.

I strongly encourage everyone to read the draft EM:POWER recommendations and provide your feedback so that CAEP can continue to lead the way to a better future for emergency medicine in Canada!

Sincerely,

Lynn R. Garrow, BSocSc (Criminology), MBA(Kellogg)
Executive Director, CAEP
